coverstory Massachusetts man of 'Medicine': American network launches new take on British favorite

BY DANA SIMPSON

Abigail Spencer stars in "Best Medicine"

Change is hard to navigate on the best of days, but big, sudden life adjustments have a way of bringing one's worst fears bubbling to the surface. Unfortunately for Dr. Martin Best (Josh Charles, "The Good Wife"), the main character in Fox's newest one-hour comedy series "Best Medicine," the Massachusetts-based medical practitioner has a lot of fears to face.

"Best Medicine" premieres Tuesday, Jan. 6, on Fox.

Based on hit British series "Doc Martin," starring Martin Clunes ("Men Behaving Badly") as titular doctor Martin Ellingham, "Best Medicine" follows an Americanized version of the same plotline. Whereas Ellingham moved from the bustling hub of London to the fictional coastal Cornish village of Portwenn in "Doc Martin," "Best Medicine" sees Best, a successful Boston doctor in his own right, make an unexpected move to the small seaside town where he vacationed as a child. Although the move itself is hard enough for Best to adapt to, the good doctor has faults that makes it hard for others to accept him in return, regardless of the fact that he is their village's only doctor.

"Martin's blunt and borderline rude bedside manner rubs the quirky, needy locals the wrong way, and he quickly alienates the town, even though he's all they've got," reads the logline per CTV, which will air the series in Canada. "Although Martin can expertly address any medical ailment or mystery in this idiosyncratic town, he's really just desperate to be left the hell alone. Instead, he keeps getting dragged right smack into the middle of their personal chaos, feuds and fantasies."

Best is played by Josh Charles, who is known to many for his twice Emmy-nominated portrayal of Will Gardner in the CBS legal/political drama "The Good Wife" as well as for roles such as Cmdr. Gabriel Wharton in Hulu's "The Handmaid's Tale" and teenage student Knox Overstreet in the 1989 Robin Williams ("Mrs. Doubtfire," 1993) classic "Dead Poets Society."

Joining Charles on screen in "Best Medicine" are Josh Segarra ("Abbott Elementary") as the town's sheriff, Mark Mylow; Abigail Spencer ("Mad Men") as Louisa Glasson, a sweet, well-mannered schoolteacher and possible future love interest for Best; Annie Potts ("Young Sheldon") as Best's estranged Aunt Joan, "who is a strong, sturdy, lobster woman who still goes out every day on her boat, and no one better tell her to stop if they know what's good for them" (per TV Insider); and the mononymous Cree ("Big Sky") as Elaine, an aspiring influencer who wants nothing more than to leave her small town in the reareview mirror.

There is also another, very special character in "Best Medicine," who will certainly look familiar to viewers of the original British series. Clunes, also known as Doc Martin himself, appears in the Fox series as Best's father and fellow doctor Robert Best.

"Robert is an accomplished but headstrong gastroenterologist whose demeanor makes Martin's prickly bedside manner seem warm by comparison," writes The Hollywood Reporter writer Rick Porter in an Oct. 13 article. "He arrives in the New England town where Martin has moved after giving up his surgical career in Boston and puts everyone on edge, including his estranged sister and Martin's aunt."

"But underneath his snobby, stone-cold exterior," the character description reads, "Robert is hiding a few secrets of his own that could turn Martin's new life upside down and force him to confront his past."

Clunes' character in "Best Medicine" is not a far cry from that of Doc Martin, who was also portrayed as curt, brash and emotionally stunted — albeit an excellent doctor — throughout all 10 seasons of the show. Although the original ITV series ended on Christmas Day 2022 after 18 years on the air, Fox is delighted to be taking up the mantle in some way by paying homage to a beloved series abroad.

“Spring Fever” - Season 1 (Jan. 5)
Based on the web novel, this Korean rom-com drama follows Yoon Bom (Lee Joo-been), who moves to the small town of Sinsu for a new beginning. Initially detached and cold, she gradually opens her heart after meeting Sun Jae-gyu (Ahn Bo-hyun).

“High Potential” - Season 2 (Jan. 6)
Returning to continue its second season, this comedic crime series follows Morgan (Kaitlin Olson), a single mom with an exceptional mind, whose unconventional knack for solving crimes leads to an unusual and unstoppable partnership with by-the-book seasoned detective Adam (Daniel Sunjata).

“Monday Night Raw: 2026” (Jan. 5)
WWE’s groundbreaking, Superstar-studded in-ring professional wrestling series delivers live action, drama and unmatched athleticism, with new episodes streaming live every week.

“Back to the Future” (Available Now)
In this 1980s sci-fi classic, small-town California teen Marty McFly (Michael J. Fox) is thrown back into the ‘50s when an experiment by his eccentric scientist friend Doc Brown (Christopher Lloyd) goes awry. Traveling through time in a modified DeLorean car, Marty encounters young versions of his parents (Crispin Glover, Lea Thompson), and must make sure that they fall in love or he’ll cease to exist. Even more dauntingly, Marty has to return to his own time and save the life of Doc Brown.

“The Traitors” - Season 3 (Peacock — Jan. 8, Season Premiere)

Hosted as always by Alan Cumming, Season 4 of this smash-hit competition series returns, with fate taking the spotlight as contestants tempt destiny inside the castle — where every move, alliance, and betrayal could change the game. Candice Dillard Bassett, Caroline Stanbury, Colton Underwood, Donna Kelce, Ron Funches, Johnny Weir, Kristen Kish and Lisa Rinna are among the cast.

“Girl Taken” (Paramount+ — Jan. 8, Series Premiere)

Based on the novel “Baby Doll” by Hollie Overton, this series follows the story of twin sisters Lily (Tallulah Evans) and Abby (Delphi Evans), whose lives are shattered when Lily is abducted from their quiet rural English town by beloved local teacher Rick Hansen (Alfie Allen). After years of abuse in captivity, Lily escapes — only to discover that freedom brings its own challenges. The world she longed to return to has moved on without her.

“The Pitt” - Season 2 (HBO Max — Jan. 8, Season Premiere)

A realistic examination of the challenges facing healthcare workers in today’s America as seen through the lens of the frontline heroes working in a modern-day hospital in Pittsburgh, this smash-hit series returns for a second season. Noah Wyle, Patrick Bal, Katherine LaNasa, Supriya Ganesh, Fiona Dourif, Taylor Dearden, Isa Briones, Gerran Howell, Shabana Azeez and Sepideh Moafi star.

“Tehran” (Apple TV — Jan. 9, Season Premiere)

Starring Hugh Laurie as Eric Peterson, a South African nuclear inspector this season, the series follows Tamar (Niv Sultan), a Mossad hacker-agent who infiltrates Tehran under a false identity. After going rogue at the end of Season 2 and reeling from the loss of her closest allies, now, Tamar must find a way to reinvent herself and win back the Mossad’s support if she is to survive.

"Industry" - Season 4 (HBO
Max — Jan. 11, Season Premiere)

At the top of their game and living the lives they set out to have as Pierpoint grads, Harper (Myha'la) and Yasmin (Marisa Abela) are drawn into a high stakes, globetrotting cat-and-mouse game when a splashy Fintech darling bursts onto the London scene. As Yasmin navigates her relationship with tech founder Sir Henry Muck (Kit Harington) and Harper is pulled into the orbit of enigmatic executive Whitney Halberstram (Max Minghella), their twisted friendship begins to warp and ignite under the pressure of money, power and the desire to be on top.

Sceptres set to clash against new-look Sirens

The puck drops Tuesday, Jan. 6, for another Professional Women's Hockey League 2025-26 regular-season prime-time matchup featuring the New York Sirens as they travel north to Toronto to take on the Sceptres at Coca-Cola Coliseum. Puck drop airs live on MSG.

Two months into the PWWHL third season, both the Toronto Sceptres and New York Sirens are looking to carve new identities, with the Sceptres finishing second in the standings last season and hoping to avoid post-season heartbreak for a third season in a row.

Against the Sirens, the Sceptres will likely be leaning on forward Daryl Watts to take the reins after having led the team last season with 27 points (12 goals, 15 assists), good enough for third overall in PWWHL scoring. Still early in the 2025-26 campaign, Watts has already racked up two points (one goal, one assist) at press time.

Additionally, a healthy Natalie Spooner, a former scoring champion and PWWHL MVP, will undoubtedly provide much-needed support as the season progresses. Spooner leads all Sceptres with three points (one goal, two assists) at press time.

New York, meanwhile, arrives in Toronto in search of a spark. The Sirens reshaped their roster ahead of the 2025-26 campaign, focusing on bringing in a blend of speed and skill while keeping key veterans such as Micah Zandee-Hart, Jaime Bourbonnais and Allyson Simpson in the fold.

Smarter. Bolder. Faster.

"Agatha Christie's Seven Dials" (Netflix — Jan 15, Series Premiere)

England, 1925. At a lavish country house party, a practical joke appears to have gone horribly, murderously wrong. It will be up to the unlikelyst of sleuths — the fizzingly inquisitive Lady Eileen 'Bundle' Brent (Mia McKenna-Bruce) — to unravel a chilling plot that will change her life, cracking wide open the country house mystery. Martin Freeman, Helena Bonham Carter, Corey Mylchreest, Ed Bluemel and Nabhaan Rizwan also star.

"The character takes me through some tough, emotional stuff, yet the show can also be really light with a comedic element to it, which is not an easy balancing act to execute. I give a lot of respect and props to our writers, who I know are in the trenches because I get deep in it with them. I take the title of executive producer very seriously. It's not a vanity title." - Ramon Rodriguez of "Will Trent" in an interview with Deadline.

"Neighborhoods undergo transformation, and the presence of culture and diversity fosters a sense of unity among individuals. You see growth, and you see expansion. Understanding others allows us to grow stronger, better, more unique and more creative." - Cedric the Entertainer of "The Neighborhood" speaking with The Philadelphia Inquirer.

"All the characters I've been privileged to play are finding themselves and their voices. Either they don't know they're entitled to one, or they misuse it or they use it to try and make a difference. But it's definitely been a theme that I've longed to explore as a female character in stories." - Laura Dern of "Palm Royale" in an interview with Town & Country Magazine.

Ice-T isn't being iced out of 'SVU'

Q: It seems like there hasn't been as much of Ice-T on "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit" lately. Is he leaving the show? — Andrew Phipps, Orlando, Fla.

A: He explained recently that to accommodate the return of Kelli Giddish to the NBC and Peacock series as Amanda Rolins, his police-sergeant character Odafin "Fin" Tutuola has had a reduction of appearances this season, mainly for financial reasons. It comes back to a situation we've addressed here, applying to such other Dick Wolf-produced shows as "FBI" and the "Chicago" dramas, with regular cast members being written out of a number of episodes to meet the budget for the given program.

Ice-T approached the situation very calmly and logically in his discussion of it, saying that he's using the extra time he has for other ventures such as his music. He expressed no bitterness, actually going in the opposite direction to express gratitude to the "SVU" team for the long television career that the series has given him ... and continues to give him, if to a lesser degree in the current round of episodes.

Q: Will "Industry" be coming back soon? — Jessica Marcus, via e-mail

A: There's great news for fans of the HBO and HBO Max drama about investment bankers, since its fourth season is slated to debut Jan. 11. There are many dangling story threads to pick up on, but the center of the saga will remain the continually tested link between newlywed Yasmin (played by Marisa Abela) and ever-ambitious Harper (Myha'la) as they try to maneuver the world of high finance both in their immediate London locale and internationally.

Harry Lawtey, who played Robert, Yasmin's close friend — who momentarily became more than that in the Season 3 finale — has left the show, with that character now making a new mark in Silicon Valley. However, the new round of "Industry" will see a number of notable cast additions including Max Minghella, Kiernan Shipka, Charlie Heaton, Kal Penn, Claire Forlani and Stephen Campbell Moore. Ken Leung and Kit Harington also will be among the returnees as the HBO and BBC co-production resumes.

Q: On the recent "Everybody Loves Raymond" reunion special, I was surprised to hear Ray Romano say that he had been fired from "NewsRadio" before having his own hit show. What role was he supposed to have played on that? — Ben Carothers, Charlotte, N.C.

A: He initially had the part that current podcast star Joe Rogan ended up playing on the 1995-99 NBC sitcom, radio station jack-of-all-trades Joe (who was named Rick when Romano originally had the job). Reportedly, Romano's comedic delivery style was deemed not to be an ideal fit for the overall pace of "NewsRadio," so the change was made.

All's well that ends well, though, since Romano started "Everybody Loves Raymond" for CBS the year after "NewsRadio" began ... and he had a healthy, much honored nine-season run with his own TV vehicle. He has done several other series since, and he's slated to join Kate Hudson in Season 2 of the Netflix comedy "Running Point."
